

save the date

Tuesday, October 2, 2007

9:00 am - 3:30 pm

National Press Club, Washington, DC

Advancing Health Communication, Saving Lives

The Health Communication Partnership's End-of-Project Meeting

The mandate of the Health Communication Partnership (HCP) has been to strengthen public health in the developing world through strategic communication programs. HCP invites you to its end-of-project forum to learn about and discuss the progress it has made over the last 5 years in areas such as family planning, reproductive health, HIV/AIDS, safe water, gender equity, and in cross-cutting issues. Presentations will focus on impact results, program approaches, new research methodologies, and lessons learned.

Funded by the U.S. Agency for International Development, the Health Communication Partnership is a global communication initiative based at the Center for Communication Programs at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, in partnership with the Academy for Educational Development, Save the Children, the International HIV/AIDS Alliance, and Tulane University's School of Public Health.

Lunch will be served

RSVP to Brandon Howard at bhoward@jhuccp.org

USAID
FROM THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

HEALTH COMMUNICATION PARTNERSHIP